SPACE IS LIMITED FOR BOTH COURSES

Classroom Educator Training—June 13-17, 2022 (attendance is mandatory for the week)

Course Fee: $650 (does not include texts—the trainee will be responsible for purchasing the texts and will be given the ones to purchase)

This training springboards into the Associate Level training but is a minimum 30-hour training. This training is designed for teachers working in classrooms or with small groups and is not intended for 1:1 instruction. Topics covered include: dyslexia and reading disorders; the OG Approach; phonology and phonological awareness; handwriting; phonics for reading and spelling; the lesson plan; history and structure of the English language; beginning morphology; informal assessments and diagnostic-prescriptive teaching; and accuracy, automaticity, and fluency.

A minimum 50-hour practicum with a minimum of five observations is offered at an additional fee of $75/observation in order to complete the requirements needed to apply to the Academy at the Classroom Educator Level, which will allow you to state you are “Orton-Gillingham Trained.”

Associate Level Training—June 13-24, 2022 (attendance is mandatory for the two weeks)

Course Fee: $1200 (does not include texts—the trainee will be responsible for purchasing the texts and will be given the ones to purchase)

The Associate Level training extends another week beyond the Classroom Educators training. This training is designed for 1:1 instruction. Additional topics beyond the Classroom Educator training include: going further in-depth with the topics above; the lesson plan for 1:1; hands-on practice with a student (trainees will have an opportunity to work with individual students during the training); student profile; written expression; reading comprehension; and the Academy’s philosophy, standards, and requirements.

A minimum 100-hour practicum with a minimum of ten observations is offered at an additional fee of $75/observation in order to complete the requirements needed to apply to the Academy at the Associate Level, which will allow you to state you are “Orton-Gillingham Trained.”

This structured and systematic training strives to increase teachers’ knowledge and effectiveness in working with students who have dyslexia and language-learning difficulties. It is an intensive course that provides opportunities for a variety of hands-on exercises which advance the understanding of specific procedures of the Orton-Gillingham Approach and the underlying science, research, and principles in teaching reading, spelling, and written expression.

Participation in these trainings requires a minimum of a 4-year college degree, not necessarily related to education.
